HOME FROM EUROPE

CPL. JOE W. EMBREY

Cpl. Joe W. Embrey of Hondo has returned home from Europe with the Eighth Infantry Division, the division which accounted for 21 times its own weight in Germans by taking 316,187 prisoners during 10 months of combat. The Eighth (Golden Arrow) Division was in the Normandy breakthrough, the capture of Brest, the bitter fight in the Hurtgen forest. Troops of the Eighth were the first to cross the Roer river, launching the drive that reached the Rhine. The Golden Arrow division then cut the Ruhr pocket in two and finished its ETO fighting by crossing the Elbe and linking with the Russians.

Cpl. Embrey is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Embrey of Hondo. He is a graduate of Hondo High School and was enrolled at Lamar Junior College, Beaumont, Texas, when he entered the Army Sept. 4, 1942. He was with the 798th Ord. T. M. Co. and was overseas 19 months, participating in the campaigns of Normandy, Northern France and Germany. Embrey holds the Good Conduct ribbon, ETO ribbon and four battle stars. Meritorious Service plaque, and Driver's medal.

After a 30-days furlough, Cpl. Embrey will report to Fort Leonard Wood, Mo., for reassignment.

CHANGES IN PROCEDURE OF TIRE INSPECTIONS

It is apparent to everyone that the rubber situation is still critical. Until the tire needs of our fighting forces are fulfilled, it is going to be necessary for every passenger car and truck owner to expand his efforts taking care of the tires now on the vehicle until the last mile of service is obtained, according to A. A. Murrell, chairman, Medina County War Price and Rationing Board.

In order to better serve Medina County and to ration our allotment of tires more equitably each month, it is necessary that beginning Monday, July 23, all passenger, truck, road grader, tractor and implement tires go through our established Central Truck Tire Inspection Station for final inspection of tires and approval of application. This station is located on Front Street, Hondo, Texas, and under the supervision of Fred Bartholme, Official Inspector. Inspection hours will be from 8 a. m. to 12 noon and 1 p. m. to 5 p. m. This Central Truck Tire Inspection Station will inspect all tires for Medina County with the exception of Devine, Natalia, LaCoste and Rio Medina, which will handle their tire inspections in the past.

The following information should be carefully noted by Medina County tire inspectors located in the above described area in order to properly handle all applications for new tire replacements:

1.—The applicant should go to his regular truck tire or passenger tire inspector for the original inspection of the tire needing replacement. An application should be filled out and signed by the applicant. The original inspector will remove the tire or tires from the vehicle, that need replacing and note on the application their condition. The tire or tires will then be taken to the Central Truck Tire Inspection Station for final approval. Tires cannot be approved at the Central Inspection Station if on the wheels; they must be removed. This covers all passenger, truck, road grader, tractor and implement tires.

Upon examination by the Official Inspector, if he finds the tire is ready to be replaced, he will stamp his approval on the application. The application will be held by him and turned in to the Rationing Board at the close of each day's business. All truck tires used on any vehicle under ODT regulations and all road grader, tractor and implement tires will be held at the Central Truck Tire Inspection Station. All passenger tires will be returned to the applicant, and must be turned in to the dealer from whom the new tire is purchased.

2.—Under the O. P. A. regulations, the original tire inspector, who assists the applicant in making out his application removes the tire and inspects it, is allowed to charge a fee of 50 cents for each passenger tire. In order that the inspection fees will not exceed this amount, the original inspector will make a charge

NEWS NOTES

From The
Navigation School

Issued by the Public Relations Office, AAFNS, Hondo, Texas.

PUBLIC INVITED TO BIG AIR SHOW, CADET GRADUATION

Expressions like "dead reckoning," "piloting points," and "celestial fixes," all familiar terms to the navigator of the AAF, fade into oblivion at Hondo Field this week in favor of such equally confusing phraseology as "fuel consumption curves," "cruise control" and "load and balances" as the big AAF Training Command airbase winds up its three-year navigation training program and turns full attention to the vital B-29 Flight Engineer School recently inherited from Lowry Field, Colo. The final navigation cadet classes will be graduated Saturday morning, July 21.

Then Monday morning at 9:45 o'clock, Hondo Field will award wings to the nation's first cadet class of B-29 Flight Engineer trainees. The dual training mission of the busy post will be over and from then on only Flight Engineer "hangar flying" will be heard where cadets and GIs congregate after the day's work.

Hondo Field is planning a colorful ceremony for the first engineer graduates. The public is invited to open-air exercises on the west ramp, where B-29s from Randolph Field, B-24 Liberator trainers from the Hondo Field training squadrons, snappily attired cadets, the post band and a speakers' stand occupied by Army Air Forces dignitaries will provide an impressive background for the morning program.

The name of the day's speaker, a The speaker will be one of the Air Forces' most prominent combat officers, Brig. Gen. Haywood S. (Possum) Hansell, Jr., who commanded the B-29s in the Marianas as commanding general of the 21st Bomber Command, 20th Air Force. He has been featured in several magazines recently.

After the exercises the public will be given an opportunity for close examination of the huge Superfortresses with which the AAF is daily pounding the daylight out of Japan. Other B-29s from Randolph Field, one of the AAF Training Command's B-29 transition schools, will roar over the west ramp during the course of the ceremony.

A highspot of the program will be the awarding of the newly-adopted AAF B-29 Flight Engineer wings to the Hondo Field graduates. The new wings are the same size as those worn by the famous officer trio of pilot-navigator-bombardier. But they have as their centerpiece a front view of a B-29 engine with its four-bladed prop.

The July 23 Flight Engineer program honoring Hondo Field's first graduating class will be climaxed by an evening dance at the Gunter Hotel in San Antonio.

Guests—citizens from Hondo and other nearby towns—arriving by automobile may enter at either gate; others walking to the field from homes in Hondo should enter at the east gate. All visitors will be admitted to the airbase for the show and directed to the graduation ceremony site.

The curtain came down July 21 on three years of record-breaking wartime navigation training at this AAF Training Command airbase as wings and commissions were awarded to its final Navigation School graduating class of combat navigators.

Principal speaker for the graduation was Lt. Col. Virgil M. Cloyd, Jr., veteran B-29 pilot of Waco, Texas, who recently returned from combat duty in the China-Burma-India theater.

Just as the future Hondo graduates will be highly skilled in the art of operating the mechanical functions of a B-29 and in figuring distances in connection with fuel consumption and weight of load, these last Hondo navigation graduates are now steeped in the knowledge of maps, charts, radio navigation, the stars, driftmeters and countless other items of combat lore and equipment with which America's navigators chart their course on bombing missions over vast reaches of the Pacific Ocean. They learned their experience from other young Americans who are combat returnees from every theater in the world.

COMETS ANNEX TWO GAMES, DROP ONE IN LOOP PLAY

Hondo Field's Comets last week dropped one while winning two, but still were unable to pull out of fifth place in the San Antonio Service Men's Baseball league.

In the fourth battle, on Sunday at Tech Field, the Hondomen fought San Marcos to a 2-to-2 draw in a game that was cut to six innings by rain. The game probably will be continued later. Hartung of Hondo and Mac Lee Baker of San Marcos gave up five and six hits, respectively.

Hondo scored an easy victory last week when they overpowered the strong SAACC Warhawks, 7-2. Engelage hurled the Comets to triumph, with some help from Hartung.

In other games last week, Hondo bowed, 8-0, to the league leading Randolph Field Ramblers, but shut out Fort Sam Houston, 7 to 0.

League standing as of July 14: Randolph, won 24, lost 7; SAACC, won 20, lost 11; Kelly, won 17, lost 13; San Marcos, won 17, lost 14; Hondo, won 14, lost 17; Fort Sam Houston, won 13, lost 18; Brooks, won 3, lost 28.

In the weeks' biggest upset, the Kelly nine shaded Randolph Field, 4 to 2.

WACOMETTES OVERPOWER HARLINGEN, 7 TO 3

Dragging their feet until the sixth inning, the Hondo Wacomettes finally snapped into a five-run rally to win, 7 to 3, from the Harlingen Gunners School Wacs, Saturday, July 14.

Looking good in the first inning, the Harlingen hurler, Chubert, belted a four-bagger to trail two runners home—their only marks, although they threatened three other times.

Hondo's Ella Gruenbaum, in top form, fanned nine batters, walked two, and gave up only three hits, and she fielded a couple of hard infield drives. Chubert fanned eight Comettes, walked two, and gave up nine hits.

Barbara Hogan in the sixth clouted a homer that brought in Jerry Hedrick from second. Marion Koch swatted a double to score two more.

Hondo is tentatively scheduled to entertain the San Angelo softball team this week, and the following week-end the girls will go to Ellington Field, with Harlingen playing a return exhibition game here Aug. 4.

VARIETY PROGRAM GIVEN FOR HOSPITAL PATIENTS

A variety program was presented by the Special Service entertainment staff last Friday night for patients at the HAAF Station Hospital.

Lt. Don Almon opened the show with favorite vocal numbers in the popular music field. One of the most popular features was the vocal quartet, Hugh Bader, Alex Macurak, Shannon Faulkner, and Rowland Lewis.

Larry Garetto, accordionist, won ovation with "Holiday for Strings" and several other tunes.

Lt. and Mrs. Almon returned for a vocal duet. Pfc. Maurice Candiotti presented vocal selections. Shannon Faulkner and Rowland Lewis teamed up for a novelty piano duet, giving their conception of Fats Waller.

SQUADRON CELEBRATES

One of the season's biggest squadron celebrations took place last Friday night as Squadron A, commanded by Major B. W. Shenlin, staged a picnic at the Hondo Field picnic grounds.

Hit of the entertainment program was Evelyn Woodley, hostess at the Cadet Club, who presented several vocal specialties. The Special Service quartet, Tap Dancer Bill Cassidy and Singer Maurice Candiotti also appeared on the program.

PLATTER FANS PLEASED

Interest is reported high in the weekly recorded concerts being given in the Hondo Field post library every Wednesday night, beginning at 7:45 o'clock. This week's program included Wagner's "Prelude to Die Meistersinger," Mozart's "Eine Kleine Nacht Musik," and Tschalkowsky's "Fifth Symphony."

THREE DANCES WEEKLY FOR HAAF GIs

Dances are being held for enlisted personnel at Hondo Field three times a week under the current entertainment schedule.

The NCO Club gives a dance every Wednesday night, and the Service Club every Tuesday and Thursday night. The two places alternate in staging dances on Saturday night. A dance is scheduled for the NCO Club on July 21, and at the Service Club on July 28.

MAJOR GARDNER SPEAKS TO LIONS CLUB

Major Joe D. Gardner, assistant director of training and operations of the new AAF Flight Engineer School at Hondo Field, made a talk about the base's new training program before the Lions Club at its regular luncheon at the USO Club Wednesday noon.

Major Gardner has been an important figure in training Flight Engineers for B-29s for several months.

HONDO GUNNER PROMOTED

A NINTH AIR FORCE BOMBER BASE, France.—The promotion of Henry M. Finger, 20, of Hondo, Texas, to staff sergeant was recently announced by the 397th Bombardment Group, famed as the "bridge busters."

A B-26 Marauder radio-operator-gunner, Sgt. Finger flew over 15 combat missions in the close coordination of Ninth Air Forces tactical air power with swift-moving ground power—a combination that did much to hasten and insure Germany's crushing defeat. He has been awarded the Air Medal with two Oak Leaf clusters.

His group, commanded by Col. Richard T. Coirer, Jr., of San Antonio, Texas, set a new record for medium bombardment in the European Theater of Operations by flying a hundred missions in 119 days. They earned their nickname of "bridge busters" by knocking out nine of the 14 bridges destroyed over the Seine river, France, in a single week. On D-day, the 397th struck twice at enemy coastal defenses. From then on, they bombed communication lines, defended various strongpoints and railroad yards in advance of the 12th and 21st Army Groups as they swept across western Europe.

Sgt. Finger's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Finger, live in Hondo.

Jap Fleet Refuses U.S. Challenge As Carrier Planes Raid Tokyo; World Studies Big Three Meeting

Released by Western Newspaper Union.
(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysts and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

The American public is responsible for forcing U. S. war vets to ride uncomfortable day coaches, as pictured above, says Undersecretary of War Robert Patterson. New regulations bar civilian use of sleepers on short trips.

U. S. FLEET: Another Challenge

Supplemented by land based fighters and bombers, more than 1,000 carrier-based planes of the 3rd Fleet attacked Tokyo. Showing his contempt for Japanese air and fleet power, Adm. William F. Halsey issued a list of ships taking part in the action and invited Nips to come and meet in battle. This was the beginning of big scale operations against Tokyo. Former attacks were limited to 500 or 600 or less planes.

The carriers launched the mighty procession while standing a few hundred miles off the Japanese coast. Future daily raids will continue with number of bombers and fighters reaching 2,000 or more.

BIG THREE MEET: Six Weeks for President

Accompanied by a staff of advisors, numbering 200, including the new secretary of state, James Byrnes, President Harry S. Truman arrived in Potsdam to attend the long-planned Big Three meeting. In Europe he was joined by General of the Army Dwight D. Eisenhower and the joint chiefs of staff.

The President will be away from Washington at least six weeks, at the conference, visits to London and inspection of American troops in Europe.

Germany to Pay

The Big Three power reparations commission sitting in Moscow has taken, as the foundation of its negotiations, 20 billion dollars as the total value of compensation to be exacted from Germany. It is not expected that final division of this sum will be allotted until after the Big Three meeting in Potsdam.

OVER THE TOP: Bond Quota Doubled

The goal of the seventh war loan, 14 billion dollars, was almost doubled as final tabulations were made on the closing date. Henry Morgenthau, retiring secretary of the treasury, made the announcement in his "valedictory" speech.

Sale of all classes of bonds totaled 26 billion, 313 million dollars. The "E" bond quota of four billion dollars was almost attained, a mark of three billion, 976 million being reached. This was the issue that was intended particularly for "small" buyers.

Total sales to individuals amounted to eight billion, 681 million dollars, surpassing the eight billion dollar goal by a wide margin. Purchases by banks, insurance companies and other financial institutions accounted for the rest of the bonds sold.

PHILIPPINES: A Great Record

The Filipino people are fully capable of governing themselves, General MacArthur told the members of the Philippines congress in Manila. Their combat record, the general went on, is the best assurance that they can handle their peacetime affairs efficiently.

He said that he was "fully confident that the American people will do everything within their power to assist you to your national destiny." The occasion was the formal presentation of orders making the general an honorary Filipino citizen and a lifetime field marshal of the Philippine army.

MORE SHOES

As a result of army order cut-backs to become effective in September, there will be an increase of 3,000,000 pairs of civilian shoes per month.

The council based their hopes for a more generous issue of civilian ration coupons on an increase in the supply of sole leather.

The industry was given a 60-day period to prepare for increased production to meet civilian requirements.

PACIFIC ACTION: In Borneo

Dutch amphibious forces made two new landings on the north shore of Balikpapan bay to loosen Japan's last grip on Borneo's vital oil.

Opposed by determined Jap small arms fire, the Dutch landed on Telokobang and Kariangno peninsulas, completing encirclement of the lower Balikpapan bay.

In China

By capture of Tayu, head of the mercury ore mining region in Kiangsi province, Chinese troops severed Jap communications with Kukong, rail center, 125 miles north of Canton.

In liberating Liuchow, Chinese troops also scored new gains along both the Liuchow-Kweilin highway and the Liuchow-Hengyang railroad.

MEAT OUTPUT: Gets a Boost

A first step towards increasing meat production and equalizing distribution was taken by the new secretary of agriculture, Clinton P. Anderson, who outlined the requirements which must be met by small slaughterers seeking to get from under quota limitations and shipment of non-federally inspected meat over state lines.

Rep. Stephen Pace (D., Ga.), who succeeded Anderson as chairman of the house food committee, promised that the committee will continue to keep a vigilant eye on the food situation. Next to the armed forces, he said, comes the American people's claim to American-produced food products, except where shipments must be made to "meet the calls of humanity." Mr. Anderson had previously stated that European demands are in for a "stiffer examination."

Certificates will be issued for slaughterers permitting unlimited slaughtering and interstate shipment.

CONTINUED TROUBLE: On Labor Fronts

Loss of the closed shop provision and retroactive benefits was held over the heads of the New York Newspaper and Mail Deliverers union by the WLB, in an effort to end the strike which deprived New Yorkers of their newspapers.

Two Fort Wayne, Ind., papers, the Fort Wayne Journal Gazette and the News Sentinel, were tied up by strikes.

Strike action against eight independent Chicago radio stations was called off by representatives of the Radio Broadcasting Technicians union (AFL) following a conference with station officials. Both sides agreed they would leave settlement of the dispute to the WLB.

In Detroit a walkout at the Dodge truck plant offset a return to work of 824 Graham-Paige workers. One thousand persons were sent home from the Dodge plant because of a strike of 11 paint sprayers who had been getting 15-minute relief periods each hour and who, according to a Chrysler spokesman, wanted 20-minute periods.

Sixteen thousand five hundred CIO United Rubber Workers were on strike at Firestone at Akron, Ohio, and the Goodyear Tire & Rubber company, employing 16,700, was operating under navy supervision. The navy took the plant over after a 20-day strike.

SOAP FAMINE

Increased domestic buying of soap has resulted from suggestion by Herbert H. Lehman, United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration director, that rationing of soap be started.

The emphasis placed on the world's tight soap situation has brought about critical shortages in many sections of the country. Manufacturers state that there is very little that can be done to increase available soap supply and nothing in the way of substitutes is available.

UNITED NATIONS: Charter in Congress

Before a friendly foreign relations committee of the senate, former secretary of state, youthful looking Edward R. Stettinius Jr. appeared as first witness, asking for its prompt adoption.

Backing up Stettinius was Michigan's Republican Senator Vandenberg, who not only declared that the charter must be adopted but paid tribute to Stettinius, while audience showed its approval with bursts of applause.

All members of committee with exception of four—a record attendance for committee hearings—were present. Pepper, absent due to death of his father; Glass and Bridges were reported ill and Senator Shipstead was not in Washington.

Stettinius said charter was not perfect, but he was sure it would improve with time. Said Vandenberg: "Stettinius' excellent record at San Francisco deserves the grateful appreciation of his country."

PRISONERS: Machine Gunner

"I just didn't like Germans." That was Pvt. Clarence Bertucci's only explanation for killing 8 German prisoners of war and wounding 20 others at a branch prison camp at Fort Douglas, Utah. Bertucci fired a mounted machine gun into the tents of sleeping prisoners while on guard duty.

He told Col. Arthur Ericsson that he had often been tempted to turn the gun on the prisoners, and "was not at all sorry" for his actions. A mental examination has been ordered. Bertucci spent several months in England, but never was in combat. He is 23 years old, and lived in New Orleans before entering the army.

The dead PWs were buried at the camp cemetery with full military honors. Their caskets were draped with the flag of the German republic, and a group of prisoners were allowed to attend the rites.

LIKES HIS VICTUALS

The amazing appetite and capacity of Pfc. Chester Salvatore shows no signs of diminishing. His gastronomic feats started army doctors at Fort Monmouth, N. J., who held him under observation for days. Recently, however, Salvatore got a furlough and had to buy his own food.

One meal in an Atlanta cafe cost him $9.95. He consumed seven orders of fried chicken, ten of french fried potatoes, nine glasses of orange juice, two quarts of milk, a giant combination vegetable salad plus ten egg salads, two orders of queen olives, two glasses of iced coffee, two servings of watermelon and five pieces of apple pie a la mode. He could have eaten more, he admitted, but that six candy bars and a quart of ice cream before lunch took the edge off his appetite.

Salvatore, who hails from Southbridge, Mass., weighs only about 140 pounds. Doctors say his stomach is only slightly larger than normal. His camp nickname? "The Stomach" . . . of course.

TRAINS: Still Jammed

Civilians are still on the go—despite increased travel restrictions. Space reservations for July had already been sold out for the most part during June on the old 30-day advance limit when the new order went into effect. ODT regulations limiting advance space reservations to 5 days will not affect civilian travel until August, railway officials explain.

In the big cities there has been no appreciable wave of cancellations as result of the second ODT order designed to give more space to the military by withdrawing Pullman accommodations from trains on trips of 450 miles or less.

There is not much "beefing" among travelers, and when questioned they usually come forward with some good reason for making the trip.

U. S. AIR KING: Fastest Fighter Built

The Chance Vought F4U Corsair, which has just gone into action against the Japanese, has proven itself in combat and bombing as the navy's fastest and most powerful fighter-bomber plane.

Powered with a 2,100 horsepower motor and armed with six 50-caliber machine guns and racked for 2,000 pounds of bombs, it is described as "tops" in maneuverability.

Nazi Flying Boat

Two years before the end of the war, Germany built a 200,000 pound flying boat, the world's largest. The plane had a range of 6,000 miles, could carry 40,000 pounds of cargo. The designer had plans for a 400,000 pound craft. The German flying boat was wrecked and set afire by six U. S. Mustang fighters late in March before it had a chance to be used against the Allies.

REDEPLOYMENT: Ahead of Schedule

Redeployment of U. S. troops from Europe continues to keep in advance of its schedule.

An army announcement states that the program is 30,000 men—two full divisions— ahead of schedule, and that by the end of June 396,001 U. S. soldiers had left European shores for home.

The June quota was 250,000; 280,000 men left Europe during that month.

(This is the second article on postwar Germany explaining how the Nazi "planned terror," methodically applied to the older Germans, has produced a state of mind among the anti-Nazi element which vastly complicates American rule of Germany.)

WNU Service, Union Trust Building Washington, D. C.

In my preceding column I described the state of mind of the middle-aged German who had been anti-Nazi or at least had no connections with the Nazi party. A study of the gestapo methods has revealed that it was planned definitely to destroy initiative and individuality. This has greatly complicated the work of the American administration of occupied Germany.

As I said, the gestapo made use of a definite system of "planned terror."

It will, I realize, be somewhat difficult for a person living in a democratic country to grasp the extent to which such methods could be applied. First, we must realize that a totalitarian government is the absolute antithesis of a democracy. In a democracy the individual is the unit. The state exists for the individual. Under Nazi-Fascist totalitarianism, it is not enough to say that the individual exists for the state. The individual as a concept does not exist at all. "The Fascist conception of the state," said Mussolini, "is all-embracing; outside of it no human or spiritual values can exist."

It was the first task of the Nazis to destroy this concept of individuality. The terror was a part of the method employed.

Purpose Was to Break Will to Resist

Bruno Bettelheim, author of "My Life in Nazi Concentration Camps," testifies to the purpose of the camps and the achievement of this purpose by the gestapo from his own experiences. He says that among the aims were these:

1. To break the prisoners as individuals and convert them into docile masses from which no individual or group act of resistance could arise.

2. To spread terror among the rest of the population by:

a. Using the prisoners as hostages;

b. Demonstrating to them what happened to those who opposed Nazi rulers.

3. To provide gestapo members with a training ground so they could:

a. Lose all human attitudes and emotions;

b. Learn the most effective ways of breaking civilian resistance.

4. To provide a laboratory in which the gestapo could study the effectiveness of torture, minimum nourishment and medical care, and normal activities plus hard labor.

The general purpose, of course, was to create a civilian population of maximum benefit to the Nazi state.

The author's study of prisoners, conducted under the camp regime, supplemented by a careful self-analysis, leads him to believe that the camp treatment resulted in either death or an adaptation to camp life. The prisoner finally accepted his position and even came to imitate the gestapo in manner and conduct.

This seems a logical progression when we know that the gestapo themselves in their training were submitted to tortures almost equal to those inflicted on the prisoners. One of the gestapo games, the author relates, was for two of them to stand up and beat each other. The one who stood the longest, won. Old prisoners who were thoroughly "changed" were said to indulge in the same sport among themselves.

Many Were Killed, Or Were Suicides

Bettelheim describes the three stages through which the prisoners passed. The first is the arrest; the second is transportation to the camp, which is the hardest to bear, he says. The last is prison life; after a period of transition during which, unless the prisoner either resists physically and is murdered or resists introspectively and commits suicide, he is gradually "changed" until he reaches the "old prisoner" stage. Then his previous nature is eradicated, his individuality lost and his subjection complete.

The initial shock was devastating especially to a German, accustomed as he was to processes logically controlled by law and order. To be deprived suddenly of one's civil rights with no recourse, came as a severe blow to the prisoner's mentality.

The transportation to the camp and the initiation into it frequently is the first experience of physical and psychological torture which the prisoner has ever experienced.

Corporal punishment, says Bettelheim, consisting of whipping, kicking, slapping, intermingled with shooting and wounding with the bayonet. Then there were tortures, the obvious goal of which was extreme exhaustion. "For instance," he says, "the prisoners were forced to stare for hours into glaring lights, to kneel for hours, and so on. From time to time a prisoner got killed; no prisoner was permitted to take care of his or another's wounds. The purpose of the tortures was to break the resistance of the prisoners, and to assure the guard that they were really superior to them."

Many were killed in this process. But those who lived, according to the author, were conditioned to the point where what followed—more beatings, more indignities, little food, exposure and brutally hard work—was not as bad as the initial experience.

For the rest, it was a slow but sure process of degeneration of body, mind and soul.

One thing which has surprised the Americans in occupied Germany is the tendency of the German people to deny that they knew the extent of the atrocities which were perpetrated in the camps or to appear to ignore their existence.

This is a result of a planned effect of the camp.

Dread Fear Hung Over Everyone

According to statements concerning conditions in Germany as early as 1930, most of the Germans who had committed actual offenses against the Nazi regime, had already been imprisoned, murdered or had died in the camps. Then the Nazis found it necessary to go out and arrest members of various groups indiscriminately, say a few lawyers, a few doctors, a few from one organization or another. This was done as a threat against that whole particular group.

The effect on a group was somewhat the same, though in a lesser degree, as the effect on a family. The effect on the families of the prisoners, of course, was marked. At first a great deal of money was spent in attempting to get the prisoner released. The gestapo always replied that it was the prisoner's own fault that he was imprisoned. Then members of the family begin to find it hard to get jobs, children had trouble at school; poor relief was denied. Always the terror hung over them. The friends and relatives of a prisoner were considered suspects. So the influence of the camp reached out over the whole group.

As the Nazi regime became more harsh and especially latterly, when world resentment increased against it even before the war, many more Germans, passive before, became openly dissatisfied and critical. It was impossible to imprison them all without interfering with the functioning of the country's economy. Then "group" arrests increased. People in lots of a hundred or so from one profession, or trade, or affiliated body, would be jailed. Thus the effect of the "terror" was multiplied. This was the manner in which the entire population of the country was enchained.

General McClure recognizes how crushing has been the effect of "planned terror," but I doubt if the general public has any realization of its magnitude. "We shall often have to go far out of our way," says the general, "to help certain individuals who have not had an easy life these last 12 years and more, men whose broken spirits may well need our support and guidance to return to the ways of active personal democratic initiative."

It took centuries to develop human dignity, but it took only a few months in a Nazi concentration camp to destroy it.

BARBS . . . by Baukhage

There is pressure to break down the anti-fraternization rules in the American army of occupation in Germany. It is not coming from American girls.

Life is gradually returning to normal in the Berlin suburbs, says a Moscow broadcast, and a bicycle race was held in one town on July 1. We hope it wasn't a master race.

Three million barrels of petroleum products were lost by recent strikes in this country, according to an estimate made by the Petroleum administration.

Two thousand seven hundred Liberty ships have been battered beyond use in service. A lot of them put up a good scrap before they were scrapped.

Red Raskall

By CLARK McMEEKIN

W.N.U. SERVICE

THE STORY THUS FAR: Lark Shannon is heartbroken when she learns that her horse, Madoc, is to be sold. Her father, Rector Shannon, had died recently, leaving the place in debt. Bethel North, near neighbor to the Shannons, held a note against Rector Shannon, and the sale of the horse, she said, would clear the note. David North, Bethel's son, and Lark's childhood sweetheart, arrives in England and asks Lark if she would like to go to America as his wife, but expresses no love for her. Lark boards the ship Tempora, expecting David to join her, but just as they sail receives word that he had sailed the night before. On the way across a groom by the name of Busby asks Lark to see a sick horse.

CHAPTER V

"I've ridden a lot," Lark admitted. "I used to race my own horse, Madoc, at the county fairs when I was a child."

"You've good hands," Jarrod glanced at them knowingly. "And I understand you're friendly. Lark here. What's your unprejudiced opinion about the mare?" He glanced anxiously at Penelope.

"I think," Lark said with great conviction, "that she should be bled as soon as possible, if you hope to save her."

"By the Great Horn Spoon, you're right," Jarrod said. "Lung fever it is, and no mistake, that's just what I've been trying to tell Busby."

"Red Raskall, that's a good name for the old feller!" Jarrod chuckled. "Now run along, child. I don't want you around while this bleeding's done. It's a nasty business but as soon as Galphine comes we'll get it over with."

Busby stepped forward eagerly and opened the wicket for Lark. "Best go take a lie-down, Miss," he said respectfully. "You're pale as a banshee. It's close and smelly down here and the boat's beginning to roll a bit."

After lunch Clelia, who had missed Lark at the meal, came down again to see about her. "My dear," she exclaimed, "you look really ill, you're positively green! I'm going to send the ship's doctor to take a look at you. Maybe he can give you some medicine that'll make you feel better." She pulled the blanket up about Lark's shoulders and hurried quickly away.

Soon both the doctor and Clink Swalters came down and were most sympathetic. The doctor gave Lark a draft, and Clink suggested a bowl of cinnamon gruel, but Lark shook her head quite firmly and shuddered at the very thought.

"If there's anything, anything at all, I can do to help, just send me word," Clink said with such sincerity that Lark was touched.

For two days and a night the Tempora streaked ahead under full sail. By late afternoon of the third day land was in sight. Over the Virginia coastal islands and the peninsula hung a curious saffron light. Fog was banked up behind it and fingered through the golden veil.

A strange uneasiness became apparent among those on board, and word went round that the glass had fallen astonishingly. The air was breathless and muggy. Toward evening a southeast wind sprang up and sang in the shrouding. A spatter of rain soon turned into a downpour and sent the passengers below deck. A cold supper was served in the saloon and after it the passengers gathered in worried and fearful little groups. From hour to anxious hour the tension grew, as the lashed furniture broke loose and careened terrifyingly back and forth.

Lark forced herself to remain calm as she heard, above the rising storm, the thin little song of the boatswain's pipe, giving its ordered commands.

Across the room Minnie was down on her knees, praying loudly. In one hand she clutched her embroidered motto and in the other a bulky carpet bag. Her hysterical girls clustered about her, weeping copiously. Only Clelia sat quietly reading her Bible. She smiled at Lark reassuringly.

Why, they were already within sight of land. Almost, one might say, they had one foot on the islands. That was what the passengers of the Tempora kept repeating over and over to one another.

Because Lark acknowledged to herself now the full extent of danger. The Tempora was sinking. It was a fact that could no longer be doubted. That weakened timber had not been able to hold against the mighty pushing pressure of the rams. However, for a moment, could any of them have thought it would, Lark wondered.

She pressed on to the hold ladder. She peered down the opening and saw a great dark pool of water. Somebody had set a lantern on a packing case down there, and, for some miraculous reason, it had escaped the cascades of water that gushed through the torn planking of the hull.

With clinging hands and cautious feet Lark climbed slowly down the ladder. Her feet found the uncertain safety of the floor at last. The water swirled about her knees but, for the moment, rose no higher. To one side of her was the cubby where Busby's and the Moor's hammocks were slung. These were swaying now like precarious bird's nests in a wind-swept tree.

Lark was down now, his halter had fast to the manger-board, as the men attempted to bandage his knees. He was hobbled, trussed up like a fowl in the market. Lark thought, I can't bear it, I can't! It was as if she, herself, was pinioned. Why didn't they cut him loose? They must do that. She tried to tell them so. She tried to speak, but she could not call out. There was an iron band around her throat. A wave of black nausea passed over her, and she retched miserably.

After a time her sight and her senses came back to her. She opened her eyes and peered beyond the horses into the further hold. There were men working there at the pumps. Her clearing vision picked out Clink Swalters' figure among them.

The black oily water swirled about their waists and encroached faster than the feeble pumps could suck it up, much faster; terrifyingly, fantastically, faster.

Clink Swalters was working with the strength of ten men, cool and in command of the situation. Like an untiring piston, his arms bent and straightened, bent and straightened again. The unerring and precise rhythm hypnotized Lark's unblinking stare. It was only when Big Dan straightened up and said, "My blasted pump's broke. She don't push out no water at all," that the spell was broken.

She opened her eyes and peered beyond the horses.

All hope was finally gone. They cut the horses loose now, so that they would have their one chance in a thousand, and not be drowned like kittens in a tight-tied sack.

Lark was free at last, Lark at last, the Red Raskall, who, in this hour of his almost certain death, was strong and beautiful and wild, urgent and quick with the wish for life. The men tried to coax him towards the ramp but he shook them off, refusing its sharp incline, whirling dangerously in the narrow space.

The gray Dawes horse, Thunder Boy, took the ramp in a powerful scramble and plunged ahead into the raging sea. Lark heard a piercing scream then, as the delicate mare, Penelope, shattered her knees in a crashing fall, heard the dull blow of the ax that, mercifully, ended her agony.

Captain Walesby was very calm, a desperately calm and agonized man. "This way," he said, "slowly now. No pushing, please." He spoke to them as if they were children, small, stupid, deaf children.

"Lark!" That was Clelia's shrill voice. Lark, here!

Lark edged over to stand beside Clelia in the line. They took hold of one another's hands and gripped tightly. That moment of companionship, that human touch was a little beacon to light the great loneliness that lay ahead.

Busby pushed the two girls ahead of him into the readying life-boat that was swung now on a level with the deck. Clink Swalters thrust a heavy oar into Busby's hand and lifted him bodily into the boat. The Moroccan groom beside him dived into the open sea.

There was not nearly enough room in the three boats for all, but Captain Walesby was giving the passengers precedence over the crew, which stood waiting in sullen silence beside him.

The boat the two girls were in swarmed with people. It was heavily over-loaded. Lark thought, I'm going to die. It doesn't matter much. There isn't any use of my adding extra weight. She tried to get out, but the davits whined querulously as, the captain having given the signal, the rowboat swung free of the pulley and began its perilous descent.

After a long moment it settled like a wounded gull in a valley between two mountainous waves. It rested there for a moment. All life, all heart-beats were suspended as the wave held its pinnacle above the frail craft for one awful frozen second before it plummeted like an avalanche on the tiny speck of the lifeboat which was sucked under in its gargantuan grasp.

Presently Lark found a thin thread of breath in her body. The walls of her chest were like iron bands, bursting, one by one, as she gulped ravenously for air.

After a while she reached out for help. But there was no help. The boat was gone. Clelia was gone. Everybody was gone.

The glare of the distress rockets flared and died. Lark's hope receded. For a time she battled against the raging anger of the sea. Then something washed against her. Something hard and slick and buoyant. A spar. Her hands took hold of it. Realized it. Clutched it and held on for dear life.

She woke to feel solid earth under her body. The swing and sway of the sea no longer hampered her. Her eyes opened, turned first towards the stretch of breaking waves on the shingled shore, and then swung towards the beach that lay under her, the clumps of marsh grass, the rocks beyond, the rising hillocks topped by trees.

Trees, land, life! Lark closed her eyes again and let the blessedness of sleep wash out the pain of death.

Slowly, inch by inch, she edged her frozen, aching body up the shelving slope. The sand was warmer here, warm as a bake-oven, delicious! She managed to scrape out a shallow nest. She peeled her wet clothes off, garment by garment, and spread them to dry. She stretched, and let the hot, bright sun caress her back, her arms, the length and curve of her legs. She burrowed down deep into the sand.

It was a sound that woke her, a sound when the sun stood high at noon; a most curious sound, not very far off from her. But she could see nothing. Nothing but the miles of waste sand and scrub with occasional fingers of tall marsh grass reaching down here and there like pointers to the sea.

Now a shrill unearthly scream broke the silence, and Lark hung back for a moment, terrified and trembling. In an instant fresh courage came to her and she plunged forward, stumbling over the shells and driftwood which littered the beach. She topped the rise and peered beyond her.

She could see what it was at last. A horse, a red horse stained almost black by the sea, flecked and ringed with white ruffles where the sweat and salt had dried on him.

Lark, the Red Raskall, why it was he! It surely was. He was caught in the quicksand and the tow of the outgoing tide! He was sunk above his fetlocks, above his knees, to his belly almost. His eyes were wild and terror-stricken, his head flung up in an agony of frustration as, with every convulsive movement, he sank lower and lower.

Lark tried the wet sand under her feet. It was firm and safe here. Step by anxious step she crept out to him, calling his name softly, holding out her hand lovingly, trying, slowly and cautiously, to creep near enough to catch the dangling halter rope.

Then it was that she remembered the spar on which she herself had floated to land. With the last strength in her body, she found it and managed to drag it to the horse, to force it in the small space left under his heaving, exhausting body, and to steady it, as, with almost human intelligence, he seemed to understand its possible help, and, after a moment of stillness, made a last tremendous thrust, feeling the momentary purchase under him, making use of it and jerking himself free.

With a rush and a scramble, he found a footing on the pebbly shelving shore and staggered toward safety, standing there, trembling and panting, with Lark's arm flung around his neck, her sobbing face buried in his mane.

He knew the sound of her voice, the passionate tenderness of the words she spoke to him. He turned his head and nuzzled her shoulder, whinnying softly, seeming to find comfort in her familiar presence.

After a time, the horse raised his head and neighed challengingly. He had evidently heard some sound that was too far off, too high and keen for the girl's ears. There was a long moment of silence. Then there came an answer.

She stood startled, listening with every strained nerve in her body. It came from the beach. Her eyes sharpened in that direction.

Why they were ponies. Ponies! In another minute they had reached the shallow water and found a footing in the sand, were coming up the slope, directly towards her. They didn't see her. They were coming towards Red Raskall, approaching him with joy and welcome. Their whinnying filled the air and made a confusion of shrill and eerie sound.

Lark's fright melted from her at their approach. These were like friends greeting her, these tiny shaggy beasts, scarcely any bigger than dogs. The largest were only waist high, the colts barely above her knees. Why she could pick one up in her arms and cuddle it like a new-born lamb!

NO MORE SISTER SUSIE'S SOCKS

Civilian consumers will benefit in the postwar period for a number of wartime discoveries by army chemists and researchers. Not only will they have synthetic soups and self-heating cocoa to use on camping trips, but they will find that they can purchase such things as shrink-proof woolen socks. The days when "the socks of sisters raised the blooming blisters have been banished forever in the army."

All army socks are now shrink-proofed, and efforts are being made to apply the same treatment to all types of wool cloth.

A new synthetic cloth has also been developed which can be rolled up into a ball and will rebound from a wall with the force of a rubber ball. It allowed to remain on a level surface for a quarter of an hour, however, the material will flatten out completely. The fiber wears extremely well, but the difficulty still to be worked out is that it will not stand more than 15 to 20 launderings.

CAPITAL CHAFF

IN view of the lumber shortage and the terrific wartime destruction of forests in the South and Northwest, a drive has started for a renewal of the Civilian Conservation corps after the war. This may be the answer to conscription.

While old-fashioned brass hats talk about a big land army after the war, General Bayerlein, commander of the Panzer Lehr division, now a prisoner, has given some interesting information to U. S. officers abroad. He reports that if the U. S. army had stepped up tactical air warfare last August, after our breakthrough into France, we could have won the war sooner. At that time, U. S. planes were bombing German factories but not concentrating heavily on tactical bombing—in other words bombing of enemy troops. . . . Wonder what the effect would be if the new goop bomb, which spreads unquenchable fire in every direction, were dropped wholesale on Jap troops in action?

U. S. and Franco's Radio

Top officials of OWI are seriously considering using the American taxpayers' money to buy time on Franco's Spanish radio network.

Up until recently, OWI was broadcasting over the Rabat, North African, station, which is French, in order to reach the Spanish people. According to OWI executive Thurman Barnard, "several programs a day carrying the American story are broadcast to the Spanish people."

But despite the recent action of the San Francisco conference in flatly vetoing the admission of Fascist Spain into the United Nations, OWI is considering a radio hookup over Franco's government-owned network.

BOOST IN COFFEE PRICES?

A debate has been raging inside the government over the price of coffee, which this time may be boosted.

Chief problem is that Brazil, our biggest coffee shipper and our best friend in Latin America, is finding it so uneconomical to grow coffee that she is turning to cotton. In that case she would be our chief competitor instead of our chief customer.

Labor costs in Brazil have risen to such an extent that Brazilian coffee growers can't produce at the OPA ceiling price which averages around 13 cents a pound. They want the price boosted to an average of 18 cents a pound. This would increase the cost of a cup of coffee one-eighth of a cent.

The state department favors such a price rise. The OPA, anxious to hold the line, is opposed.

MERRY-GO-ROUND

Senator Carl Hatch of New Mexico has been sitting on the anti-poll tax bill until the San Francisco United Nations charter is out of the way. He does not want a poll-tax filibuster to upset ratification of the charter.

Fortnight Fred Vinson, the war mobilizer, is going to be put on the spot soon by the Surplus War Property board. It is about to hatch a ruling whereby 11 billion dollars of government-owned war plants and machinery would be sold merely on the basis of price, not on the basis of where they could stimulate business and competition. . . . If the Surplus board has its way, war plants, machinery, etc., will go to the DuPonts, General Motors, Ford, and others with the most cash to buy them.

Unsung heroes of the airplane carrier Franklin's rescue were Capt. John Gingrich, skipper of the cruiser Pittsburgh, and his executive officer, Ed Rivers. Capt. Leslie Gehres of the Franklin expressed astonishment that the Pittsburgh kept its towline on the burning airplane carrier with Jap suicides hitting at both. . . . The answer is that for over 37 hours, Gingrich remained on the bridge, with Rivers assigned to the fantail to watch the towline. Neither had a moment's sleep during those 37 hours.

3 Presidents in Position To Pick Their Successors

Until 1886, a law provided that when the presidency of the United States was left vacant by one who had succeeded to it from the vice presidency, the office was to be assumed temporarily by the president of the senate for the sole purpose of ordering a new election, says Collier's.

Since 1886, when a new law extended the succession to cabinet members beginning with the secretary of state, three Presidents have been in a position to name their successor in case of their death—Theodore Roosevelt, Coolidge and Truman.

SNAPPY FACTS about RUBBER

Although rubber is ordinarily considered non-conductive, B. F. Goodrich has perfected an electrically conductive rubber used in the form of a "shoe" for de-icing airplane propellers.

Bathing suits that won't get wet even when the wearer goes in swimming are a good possibility. The waterproof bathing suits are coated with B. F. Goodrich Koroseal.

"Bullet-proof" tires are so designed that a punctured tire can be run for 40 miles before it is ruined.

Almost every modern weapon has some rubber in it.

JOSEPH SCHNEIDER BURIED AT CASTROVILLE

Funeral services were held on Tuesday, July 17, from the Tondre funeral home in Castroville for Joseph Schneider, who was among the oldest natives of Medina County, being 86 years and 7 months old at the time of his death. He was born on the Francisco Perez below Castroville on the 21st of November, 1858. His parents, Joseph Schneider and Dorothea nee Frank, were among the original Castro Colonists.

Mr. Schneider lived in Castroville or vicinity all his life, and was married there in 1892 to Miss Julia Naegelin, who died during the flu epidemic of 1918. Three children of this marriage survive their father, Martin Schneider of Castroville,
Mrs. Clara Moehring of Bader Settlement, and Mrs. Ida Groff of Pear-
all. There are also 13 grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

The deceased made his home with his son, Martin, near Castroville. He had been in failing health for over a year and bedridden for the past six months. On Sunday it became evident that he was sinking rapidly and he died at 6 o'clock, fortified by the last rites of his Church, administered by his pastor, Rev. Jacob Lenzen. A host of friends and relatives attended the funeral services. Pallbearers were Guss Schneider, Alex
Bohl, Alfred Bohl, Thomas Weiss,
Hugo and Herbert Naegelin.

God cannot lay anything into a

Jap Balloons Turn West Wild Again

Sheriff Finds Them Worse Than Bucking Bronco.

WASHINGTON.—Japan's fantastic balloon-bomb attack on this hemisphere is adding a new chapter to the lore of the West.

One sheriff will be able to brag that he has ridden something wilder and more dangerous than the most rambunctious bronco that ever threw a cowboy into the cactus.

The story of the sheriff's ride can now be told although details as to time and place must be withheld. It started when a rancher reported what he thought was a big parachute coming down in the foothills.

The sheriff knew what it was. He called an FBI man and sallied forth to his great adventure. When they came to the place, the balloon had settled to earth. While they looked a gust of wind sent it into the air again.

The sheriff chased it. The first time he got close enough to grab at its mechanism he deliberately let the opportunity slip by. Life was sweet and he had no desire to take leave of it.

But the call of duty won out. After a 200-yard sprint the sheriff got hold of a shroud line. From then on he couldn't have let go if he had wanted to—which he did.

For 55 minutes the balloon pulled him over hill and dale. Once it carried him bodily across a 35-foot ravine. He tried to climb on top of the balloon and hold it down, but it threw him off. Finally, he was able to throw a hitch around a tree and bring the bag to a halt. With the FBI man's help, he tied it fast.

"I was plumb tuckered out," the sheriff reported. "I felt like I was in the middle of a nightmare."

Another sheriff got the biggest game of his life when he potted one of the balloons with his rifle.

Soldier Is Alive; Wife Now Sorry She Wed Again

WASHINGTON, D. C. — Another wife who was remarried after she believed her soldier-husband dead is sorry now and hopes to return to him.

The latest case is that of Mrs. Thelma Hammond Nelms, who has filed suit for annulment of her present marriage. Mrs. Nelms said she had received no word from her first husband, S/Sgt. David E. Hammond of Sharnburg, Md., after May, 1943, and had assumed that he had been killed. His sister had been notified that he was missing in Europe.

Mrs. Nelms' present husband is William R. Nelms of Pennington Gap, Va. They were married last August.

"I don't know why I did it," she said, "except that I felt Dave had died, and—to tell the truth—I was so awful lonesome."

Mrs. Nelms learned three months ago that her first husband had been liberated from Stalag 30 by the Red army.

Army Is Storing Meat In Caves in Normandy

CHICAGO. — Brig. Gen. J. E. Barzyski, commanding general of the Chicago quartermaster depot, has disclosed that three vast caves in Normandy are being operated by a quartermaster refrigeration company to store as much as 3,000 tons of meat for Allied armies.

Opening on the face of a Normandy coastal cliff, the caves were excavated 50 feet underground by the French for ammunition dumps at the beginning of the war.

Following the invasion of Europe by Allied forces, army engineers installed a system of overhead ammonia pipes and a frozen coldblowing device which maintains a constant temperature of about 14 degrees F.

Each of the tunnels is about 250 feet long and 30 feet high with lateral bays leading off on either side of each passage. Meat stored in the bays is received directly from refrigerated vessels and after storage is reissued to refrigerated vans to be taken to the front.

Million Wounded Flown To Safety by Air Forces

WASHINGTON.—Army air forces transport craft have flown out of battle areas more than a million wounded or sick American and Allied soldiers since the early days of the war.

The AAF said nearly 100 per cent of the battle casualties east of the Rhine in the final phase of the war were brought out by aircraft. More than 300,000 patients were evacuated from forward to rear areas by air in the period between D-Day and M-E Day.

The period covered by the report starts with the last four months in 1942 when mass air evacuation was initiated in the South Pacific during the Guadalcanal and New Guinea campaigns.

Malaria Among American Troops Cut 75 Per Cent

WASHINGTON.—Preventive measures have cut the rate of malaria infection among American soldiers overseas by 75 per cent since the 1943 peak.

However, the Office of War Information added in a report on armed services malaria problems, the number of victims among men and women returned from overseas may be expected to increase.

OWI also cautioned that potentially the disease could be spread in this country because the anopheles mosquito, which carries the infection, exists in every state.

Lend-Lease Aid for China Is Boosted

WASHINGTON. — Lend-lease aid to China in April was more than 15 times that of the same month a year ago. Leo T. Crowley, foreign economic administrator, said that April's $61,000,000 worth of materials and services brought total lend-lease assistance to China since March, 1941, to $458,674,000.

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

By PAUL MALLON

Released by Western Newspaper Union.

TARIFF REDUCTION BILL CALLED BLOW AT INDUSTRY

WASHINGTON.—"Twas said upon the airwaves and in print, Mr. Truman won his greatest victory over congress on the tariff cutting program.

It seems to me someone should have smelled something, if not a mouse, when 15 senators and 10 Republicans voted for the Democratic Tariff bill. Unity has not yet developed in this world to the heavenly point that a Republican accepts a Democratic theory on this issue where their forefather fought, bled and collected.

Men have won the President's chair (and lost it also) for their stand upon this one question alone. Nothing, including the civil war (which was a phase of the tariff dispute between the foreign free-trading cotton growers and the New England textile manufacturers desirous of protection) has so deeply torn the political hearts of Americans.

But this time congress, with Republican votes, authorized a further slashing of 25 per cent by the President singlehanded (making 75 per cent in all from the old high tariff rates) without advice or consent of congress — or the Republican National committee.

Yet, even Republican Senator Smith of industrial New Jersey voted for it, changing his mind in the last few days from his previously announced repugnance to such a threat to American industrialist, farmer and laborer from cheap foreign competition.

Victory For Enigmatism.

Indeed, the senate did not change the bill one whit from the house version, which caused revival of all the partisan fighting of ages, but it just said "Yea" in a loud voice and sent it on to the President's desk, where he could victoriously find it upon his return from San Francisco.

The hint of these strange doings should have been sufficient warning that something was wrong, but if anyone reported it, I have not seen the report.

Any analyst, however, will be forced to conclude the victory was for enigmatism, more than for Truman. Just before the slashing authority passed the house (and in order to get it through), Mr. Truman sent a letter to his friend Speaker Sam Rayburn saying:

"I have had drawn to my attention statements to the effect that this increased authority might be used in such a way as to endanger or 'trade out' segments of American industry, American agriculture, or American labor. No such action was taken under President Roosevelt and Cordell Hull and no such action will take place under my presidency."

The only reason for a tariff rate, of course, is to protect some American industry, farm or worker from cheap production costs coming in competition from abroad. There are no tariffs on non-competitive products, no reason for any.

If there is to be no "danger" to domestic interests from tariff cutting, how can there be any tariff cutting — in fact, why was the subject ever mentioned, or the law passed?

To this question, no senator I have found has even a private answer. The only suggestion approaching an explanation is that Mr. Truman expects to horn in somehow on the German and Jap trade by some magic yet undisclosed, and it will have to be big magic because the Nazi and Jap cost of production was what made this trade possible (including electric light bulbs in our 10 cent stores for half our cost of production).

Why would not a Republican vote for a Democratic tariff proposition like that?

Indeed, the administration went compromisingly further and announced firmly that an escape clause would be adopted to its future tariff-cutting treaties, one like the provision of the Mexican treaty.

But we have been told by the administration, the leftwingers and even Republicans that quotas are horrible; in fact, were the cause of the war. And Mr. Truman's people have advertised his new tariff slashing powers as a beautiful bonanza of the bountiful postwar world, the one "indispensable leg" of the Roosevelt postwar program, including also the Bretton Woods bank and exchange matter and the San Francisco agreement.

The indispensable leg apparently has rheumatic quotas and non-competitive arthritis.

SEVERAL old-time ball players have suggested that the public at large should not judge Hank Greenberg in the same light as some of the other ex-servicemen who have returned to make good. Two of those mentioned were Ferriss and Benton.

"Remember," one of these said, "Ferriss and Benton had a chance to play a lot of baseball before they were released from service. Any number of star ball players have been playing on army or navy teams. But Greenberg has played practically no baseball for over four years. That's a long gap. I recall that old Pete Alexander came back from the A.E.F. to keep on going at a winning clip, but old Pete was only out of the game a year or less. It will be remarkable if Hank can start hitting home runs right away. Even close to his old form he could murder a lot of these pitchers now around, but it will take time."

This brings up the old argument again regarding Joe Louis. Joe has been away over three years. But after all he has had the chance to box in a long list of exhibitions for various camps and hospitals. This isn't the same as actual ring fighting, but at least it has given the heavyweight champion a chance to keep his hand in. The same is true of Billy Conn.

They probably won't be what they used to be—but they can still get back into pretty fair boxing and punching form, if they happen to get out before too long.

With the heavy play both army and navy are now making on the side of sport for servicemen in Europe and the Pacific, their chances for any sudden exit are none too warm.

Army and navy have made plans to get all the coaches and trainers they can collect and to build up as many all-star contests as they can find—especially in the way of boxing, baseball and football. These are the three top sports that carry the leading soldier and sailor appeal, although basketball also has a terrific call.

Louis and Conn

I asked Jimmy Johnston, sage of the leather district, how he figured Louis and Conn would go after returning to the ring.

"First of all," he said, "just tell me when they are going to get out. That's important. If it takes much longer I'd say some tough young heavyweight soldier will come along who won't be afraid to tear in and punch. He will also be younger and tougher. No, I don't know who he will be. But with all the boxing training hundreds of thousands of these kids have had, a few of them are sure to learn a lot and to have what it takes."

"Just what does it take?" I asked.

"Very simple," the sage said. "To know how to box, to know how to punch, to be able to take a punch. You see thousands of kids who might have been good fighters never had a chance to get any instruction before. They never had a chance to do any boxing. The big majority had no chance to be a champion, anyway. But there must be many others who are sure to move far up. This goes for every class. Some of our best ring fighters have been teaching thousands of these younger men. It is for this reason that I think we'll get most of our ring champions out of this group."

In this connection a friend of Joe Louis tells me that the heavyweight leader now has his golf game down into the low 70s and expects to hold a big July tournament over one of Detroit's municipal courses. It is much easier to get Louis to talk about golf and the golf swing than it is to lure many words from him about boxing or the heavyweight championship.

Also, Bowman Milligan, manager of Beau Jack, reports that while the lightweight's knee is still bothering him, he is winning camp fights by quick knockouts. Beau Jack's present weight is over 145 pounds so he will have his share of trouble training himself back into the lightweight division.

But it won't be any great trouble in most cases to remove surplus flesh. The big gamble will be what the returning veteran can do with the flesh, bone and sinew he has left, once he is down to weight. And there will be a flock of different answers to this problem.

Al Benton's Case

There is, for instance, the case of Al Benton of the Tigers. Al is 6 feet 4, 238 pounds, age 32. He served two years in the navy. Many people will refer to his record as proof that service in the armed forces does not affect a player's ability, but Benton spent all his time at Norman, Okla., had the position of athletic director, and about all he did was pitch. He had time to improve his curve ball and his slider, his main pitch today is this slider in fact.

THE OSCAR PURKEY BLUEPRINT FOR PEACE

To the Peacemakers: This is a Blueprint for Peace which me and some of my buddies made up out of our own heads on account of we think if we have not got no right to have views on a peace who has?

A G.I. gets the creeps at the thought of an old style peace made from the 1919 pattern and enforced no better than "No Smoking" signs in subways, and nothing gives him the heebie-jeebies like the chance another peace will turn out to be just a rest period in a slaughter house.

Me and my buddies has done a lot of talking with others and found they all think the same way which is that the job of making a bright new world is not going to get nowhere without the following specifications:

1. The abolition of baloney, bunk, goose grease, applesauce and what is commonly called "the old malarkey" from all deliberations.

2. No double talk. (This means positively.)

3. Night and day illumination of the goal posts. (And no dimming of the lights to secretly move the posts.)

4. A realization of the fact this world cannot exist half man and half rat. (Even a 5 per cent rat quota is too high.)

5. The same courage by peacemakers that was expected of men in the fighting planes, mountain passes, jungles, split trenches and foxholes, and on all the oceans of the world.

6. The blitzing of any disposition to gamble the future of the world on a policy of expediency. No walking in our prewar sleep . . . and no sleeping on our postwar walks.

7. The creation of some organization to safeguard the peace by armed co-operation against international cut-throats. You can't keep out of no free-for-all brawl by pulling down the shades and humming "Hearts and Flowers."

8. The constant realization that such a organization must come in on a backbone and a wallop and not on a paper wing and a prayer. One more Geneva rabbit rumba will make the alert signal the main dependence of civilized man.

9. An approach to all problems in the spirit of King David and never in the spirit of Mickey Mouse.

10. The creation of a League of Nations that never mistakes a double chin for muscle and don't think a backbone is something to be shown only by strip-teasers.

11. A pledge by the four great Powers to cement relations (but never confuse cement with bubble gum) and to stay in the lineup to the finish no matter who comes to bat.

12. No determination to force the American, British or Russian way of life on anybody else. (A way of life is not no nightshirt or no derby hat. A realization of the fact that any people's way of life looks screwy to the other fellow, regardless of the fact it may have more gadgets, subways, escalators and crooners.)

13. We must not let no war lord escape on the ground he didn't get the right vitamins.

14. We all got to keep our noses clean together or we will all go to the cleaners separately. The big question before the peace commissions is whether we get a happier world out of this war or just a slappier one.

15. All peacemakers should keep pasted in their hats the idea that if we ever have another war the question will not be "What'll we do now?" but "What hit us?" And they got to realize through things like the V-1, V-2 and V-3 bombs, that another global fracas will be a combination of Dante's "Inferno" and "The Last Days of Pompeii," with a gooseflesh radio scenario by Orson Welles chucked in for extra creeps.

OSCAR PURKEY, Pte.

(From "Private Purkey's Private Peace" by permission of the publishers, G. P. Putnam's Sons.)

President Truman may have gone on that fishing trip to get a little training in "holding the line." We still think him the most authentic fishing President since Cleveland. He looks to us like a fellow who would dig his own bait, rig up his own tackle, and think to bring a couple of cans of beer and some cheese sandwiches.

We think that most of those Jap suicide divers have been assured by their superiors that nets have been provided for them.

The governors of the New England States and seven other governors have concluded a conference in New York on the food crisis. And the governor of New Hampshire said to the governor of Vermont, "It's a long time between steaks."

Said the Governor of Mass., To the Governor of Connecticut, "I've heard there's beef of class But it's long since I elicited."

Watch Your Kidneys!

Help Them Cleanse the Blood of Harmful Body Waste

Your kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as Nature intended—fail to remove impurities that, if retained, may poison the system and upset the whole body machinery.

Symptoms may be nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—a feeling of nervous anxiety and loss of pep and strength. Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, scanty or too frequent urination.

There should be no doubt that prompt treatment is wiser than neglect. Use Doan's Pills. Doan's have been winning new friends for more than forty years. They have a nation-wide reputation. Are recommended by grateful people the country over. Ask your neighbor!

Preserves Bring Bright Cheer for Winter
(See Recipes Below)

Let's Preserve

Wise are the women who gather their fruits and vegetables and plan ahead for winter months when food is scarce. Imagine, if you can, the thrill of knowing that your canning cupboard holds within it the provision for several hundred meals, all the result of your own work.

Last winter the women who put up pickles and preserves blessed the providence that caused them to do it. For preserves often made up for the plainness of the meat dish, pickles gave a flavor touch when menu variety was at a low ebb, and chili sauce went into hundreds of meat dishes which otherwise might have lacked for flavor.

Preserves may be served with meats, fowl or plain bread. Try to gauge how much sugar you will have and allot only a portion of that for preserves this summer as you will want to use much of the canning sugar for whole fruit.

To be at their best, preserves must be cooked in small batches, anyway in fairly wide pans. There is no need for skimming preserves if they are left in the pans for five minutes after cooking time is finished.

In warm climates where storage is difficult, they are best when processed in a water bath at simmering temperature for 20 minutes. This will help prevent mold.

Tomato Preserves.

- 2 pounds tomatoes
- 4 cups sugar
- 1½ cups water
- 1 lemon
- 1 stick cinnamon
- 2 pieces ginger root, if desired

Use small, firm red, yellow or green tomatoes. Scald one minute. Dip into cold water. Skin but do not core. Combine sugar, water, lemon (sliced thin), cinnamon and ginger and simmer for 20 minutes. Add tomatoes and boil gently until they are bright and clear. Cover and let stand overnight. Pack cold tomatoes into sterile jars. Boil syrup as thick as honey and pour over tomatoes. Process in water bath for 15 minutes.

Apricot Preserves.

- 2 pounds apricots
- 3½ cups sugar or corn syrup

Wash, peel and halve firm, ripe apricots. Combine fruit and sugar in alternate layers. Let stand several hours or overnight. Heat slowly until sugar dissolves, then boil rapidly until fruit is clear. Let stand several hours. Pack cold fruit into sterile jars. Reheat syrup, boiling it

Lynn Says

Serve These Leftovers with Scrambled Eggs: For every six eggs used, blend in 1 cup diced, sauteed bread cubes with 1 teaspoon chopped chives.

If you prefer a meaty flavor, add 1 cup sauteed chicken liver and top with several slices of cooked bacon.

Fish is delicious with the egg combination. You might try ½ cup flaked fish, or ½ cup of any of the following: flaked lobster, shrimp, or crabmeat.

Vegetables add eye-appealing goodness to a golden fluffy mixture of scrambled eggs: 3 tablespoons minced parsley and chives; ½ cup chopped or cooked tomatoes, in which case omit the milk from the mixture; ¼ cup chopped, cooked mushrooms.

down if not thick enough. Pour hot syrup over fruit and seal at once.

Chili sauce does not require much sugar and is very good when made with the combination of spices given in the following directions:

Chili Sauce.

- 1 gallon tomatoes
- 2 cups onions
- 2 cups sweet red peppers
- 1 pod hot red pepper
- 1 cup sugar
- 3 tablespoons salt
- 1 tablespoon mustard seed
- 1 tablespoon celery seed
- 3 tablespoons mixed spices
- 2½ cups vinegar

Skin tomatoes before chopping. Chop all vegetables before measuring. Tie spices in a mixed bag. Mix all ingredients except spice bag and vinegar. Add spice bag after mixture has boiled for 30 minutes. Cook until very thick, then add vinegar and boil until there seems to be no more free liquid. Taste and add more seasoning if necessary. Pour while hot into hot, sterile jars and seal according to manufacturer's directions.

There are a number of other foods which you may not have preserved in other years that would now come in handy. First of all, you may want some lovely garden or orchard fresh fruit juices. For these you will need one cup sugar to the gallon with additional sweetening when served.

Canning Berry Juices. Blackberries, blueberries, loganberries, raspberries, etc., may be used. Wash, crush and simmer juices until soft. Strain through several layers of cheesecloth. Add one cup sugar to each gallon of juice. Reheat to simmering and pour into hot, sterile jars. Process for 30 minutes in hot water bath at simmering temperature (180 degrees).

It's good to have tomato sauce handy for those meat and vegetable dishes throughout the winter. Canned? Of course!

Canned Tomato Sauce.

Mix 3 quarts chopped tomatoes, 1 quart sliced onions, 1 pint chopped green peppers, 1 tablespoon chopped parsley, salt to taste and a pod of hot red pepper. Cook slowly until thick. Then pour into sterile jars and process in a pressure cooker at 10 pounds for 35 minutes or 2 hours in a boiling water bath.

Canned Vegetable Soup.

5 quarts chopped tomatoes
2 quarts chopped green lima beans or
2 quarts green beans
2 quarts carrots
1 pint celery
4 tablespoons salt

Cook tomatoes until soft, then press through sieve. Add other ingredients and simmer for 10 minutes. Pour into sterile jars and process in boiling water bath 60 minutes at 10 pounds pressure or 3 hours in a boiling water bath.

IT DIDN'T take Myrna Loy long to decide what she'd do as a free-lance star after she left Metro. Practically everybody wanted her for a picture, but she chose the feminine starring role in "Genius in the Family." The story's laid in 1870, and is all about the courting days of Hiram Stevens Maxim, who invented the machine gun, among other things. And who do you suppose plays Hiram? None other than Don Ameche. But he doesn't invent a thing during the picture, just plays a charming and resourceful suitor.

When the Kate Smith program returns to the air early in September, it will be broadcast Fridays at 8:30 p. m., EWT, on CBS, instead of Sundays, and will be on the air 25 minutes instead of a full hour. And there'll be more songs by Kate.

Cornel Wilde, expert fencer, who plays the swashbuckling Aladdin in Columbia's "A Thousand and One Nights," will be built up as the successor to the late Douglas Fairbanks in roles of that type. He's the first to get that build-up since Fairbanks died.

Remember all those models who were taken to Hollywood, with much fanfare, for "Cover Girl"? Dusty Anderson, the only one of the 15 to be given a studio contract, gets her first lead playing opposite Warner Baxter in "The Paper Doll Murders."

John Reilly, the engineer of the air show, "It Pays to Be Ignorant," works nights, and sleeps late mornings. At least, he did until his three-year-old daughter heard little Johnny, the call boy on the Ginny Simms show. Now she gets up at the crack of dawn and goes around the house imitating Johnny's clarion call advertising the sponsor's cigarettes at the top of her lungs.

Marie McDonald will play her first piano solo before a huge audience — all the people who go to see "Getting Gertie's Garter." Producer Edward Small heard that Marie had been studying piano with Ray Sinatra, cousin of Frank, who's one of Hollywood's best known pianists and arrangers. Small didn't know she'd learned little more than the scales, so he had her written in for a piano solo.

The new Fred Waring show, heard Mondays through Fridays over NBC, is a novelty in more ways than merely changing the usual network type of morning programs. Waring has made his program a showcase for returning veterans who want to make show business their postwar careers. The veterans apply for an NBC "Welcome Home Audition," provided by the network especially for servicemen; Waring scans the results and picks the most promising.

When Roy Acuff and the Smoky Mountain Boys and Girls of "Grand Ole Opry" fame were being flown in a C-47 to a huge war bond rally in Tennessee, members of the plane's crew regretted that they'd miss the show, as they had to return. So Roy and his band got out their instruments, and while flying 200 miles an hour at 5,000 feet, gave their complete performance for the crew.

Kay Kyser wrote President Truman asking for a list of the chief executive's tunes, and was informed that they're "Over There," "Pack Up Your Troubles," the "Toreador Song" from "Carmen," and "Song without Words." Kay will present them in new arrangements on his air show.

ODDS AND ENDS—Ellery Queen show guest armchair detectives who have only a mild interest in murder-mystery fiction are usually the most successful in guessing the correct solution. . . . Barbara Jo Allen, the "Vera Vague" of radio fame, has a featured role in Columbia's "Snafu." . . . Micky Kuhn, 11, who plays Rhett Butler's son in "Gone With the Wind," has been signed to play Dick Tracy Jr. in RKO's series of films based on the popular comic strip. . . . Monogram's "Dillinger" is breaking records, and inspiring other studios to go in for similar films. . . . Andy Russell has been signed for the new Joan Davis air show, starting in the fall.

of only 25 cents each for passenger tires and the Central Truck Tire Inspection Station will charge only 25 cents each for the final inspection of the tire.

3—On all truck tires, the original inspector will make the inspection after removal of the tire or tires to be replaced, and charge of 75 cents each for a tire 750-20 and smaller, $1 each for an 825-20 and larger, plus an additional charge of 75 cents for removing and inspecting inside dual tires of 825-20 and larger. There will also be a charge of 25 cents each for 750-20 and smaller tires and 50 cents each for 825-20 and larger tires at the Central Truck Tire Inspection Station for final inspection.

4—We also want to caution the applicants, as well as tire inspectors, that the number of tires being properly repaired and recapped in this county is not in line with other counties of similar conditions and circumstances. Also the regulations specifically state that tires not fit for repairing or recapping but can be used further by means of boots or liners are not replaceable, but must be kept in service until the last mile is obtained. Abuse of truck tires from overload, speed, bad brakes, over inflation, faulty wheel alignment, mismatched dual, etc., are going to be watched carefully and reported on the application.

All Official Tire Inspection Stations located in the above area covered by the Central Truck Tire Inspection Stations in Hondo and adjacent territory should comply with the above instructions which will improve handling of tire applications and tire inspections, and enable the Rationing Board to issue tire certificates more promptly.

Our Country Needs Still More
Used Fats...And We're the Folks to Save them!

IN between the good news about the war these days, careful readers of the paper will see grave words about a serious national shortage that has a direct bearing on military and civilian production schedules.

Our domestic supplies of fats and oils will be approximately one and one-half billion pounds less than last year. Yet thousands of tons of fats are still needed to help make countless essentials for the battle- and home-fronts.

While country people have been doing an even better job of saving fats than the city folks, we must remember that, because of the meat situation, we are in a better position to save. That's why we can't afford to miss a trick.

So, let's save not only the big amounts from frying and roasting, but also meat trimmings, plate scraps, and scrapings. Melt them down once a week and add the liquid fat to the salvage can. Skim soups and gravies. Scrape every pan. Every drop is important.

When your salvage can is full, take it to your butcher, and get 2 red points and up to 4¢ for each pound. If you have any difficulty, call your County Agent or Home Demonstration Agent.

100,000,000 More Pounds of Used Fats Are Needed This Year!

Approved by WFA and OPA. Paid for by Industry.
